

Arthur Policies and Procedures

Created August 1997 • Last Rev. Aug. 1999 & Consolidated July 2001

Last rev. Jan. 2017

Mission Statement:

Arthur's goal is to produce a weekly newspaper that gives informative, interesting and accurate accounts of events and issues relevant to Trent students.

Arthur exists as an essential component of the student community. Arthur should be accessible to encourage participation so that it can be representative of the communities it serves.

Arthur strives to be valuable and constructive by providing information and analysis, and by giving a forum to individuals and groups that have little or no access to other forms of media.

Arthur acknowledges its privileged position in being free from commercial and administrative controls. We strive to protect that position by defending our editorial autonomy.

Our mandate is to cover issues that affect students. However, we believe that no subject need fall outside the grasp of the student press. We best serve our purpose when we help widen the boundaries of debate on education, social, economic, environmental and political issues.

1. Introduction & Definitions

1.1 Introduction

The following policies and procedures are intended to give Arthur Board, staff and volunteers the structure and guidelines necessary to fulfil their roles and to work together in an effective manner. Working or volunteering for the university newspaper should be fun and educational experience.

These policies and procedures should be reviewed and updated by the Board of Directors as often as required. They should be made accessible to the Board, staff and volunteers by maintaining an easily accessible copy in the office and having an up-to-date copy on the website. Policy and procedure suggestions can be brought to board meetings for review.

Policies and procedures should be reviewed at the end of each year to assure the policies and procedures have been properly enacted.

There were meetings of the caucuses at some time before the first reading break at which time a contact list had been created.

One of the main focuses of the caucuses is the coordination of the Community Self Representation Project papers. These papers, in the past, have been an attempt to represent the aforementioned groups as they exist within the Trent University/local community. In the recent past, Arthur editors have opted for the removal of these editions as editor(s) and staff collective have expressed they want representation of these groups year-round in the paper and not simply in one issue per year format.

Caucuses may be created by the editor(s) and Board as deemed necessary.

The caucuses may meet when necessary, jointly or separately, to perform their duties. Other duties include:

The Board will contact the person who the complaint names and ask them for a written response which must be received within five weekdays of the request. The Board may request a separate meeting with each party, but is not required to do so.

The Board will review both letters and make a decision within ten week days of receipt of the letter of response or within ten days of the meetings with the parties involved.

If the Board finds that there is an issue of harassment that is impeding the Staff Collective member from working effectively at Arthur, the Board will write a letter to the person who is harassing a staff member and send a copy of it to the complainant.

Complaints must be submitted in writing to the Board and editor(s), who have 10 week days to respond in writing, The Board may request a meeting with both parties but is not required to do so. The Board has 10 week days to respond. Recommendations made by the Board regarding editorial policy are non-binding.

6.2 Complaints dealt with by the Anti-Oppression Committee

If no Anti-Oppression Committee exists the following should serve as a guide for the Board of Directors for harassment and discrimination complaints.

6.2.1 Complaints

The committee may be approached at any time by Members or Staff Collective members who wish to discuss issues or incidents of ... harassment or discrimination. These informal meetings shall be considered outside the formal complaints process. However, should either party so desire, informal mediation between parties involved may be attempted or a formal complaint may be filed at this time.

The committee will receive formal complaints from a person(s) alleging that an act(s) of ... harassment or discrimination has been directed to them. Formal complaints shall be in writing and shall include: the name(s) of the complainant(s), the name(s) of the respondent(s) and a brief description of the incident(s) or circumstance(s) prompting the complaint. In addition the complainant shall outline what in their opinion a satisfactory resolution of the situation might entail. The statement must be signed by the person(s) who was/were allegedly harassed.

A formal complaint must be filed within six months of the occurrence of the incident prompting the complaint. Under extenuating circumstances, the Anti-Oppression Committee may extend this deadline.

6.2.2 The Interview Process

Upon receiving a complaint the committee will meet separately with both the complainant and the respondent in that order. During these interviews the complainant and the respondent may have another participant of their choice present to help them represent their interests.

The Committee may subsequently meet with any other person(s) the committee feels may be able to assist them by providing additional insights surrounding the complaint provided confidentiality is assured (ex, Trent's Human Rights Advisor).

6.2.3 Official Record of Interviews

The official record of the meetings must be in written form and shall be drawn from the notes of the members of the committee. This record shall be signed by the person interviewed to attest to its completion and accuracy in representing the interview. Those interviewed shall have the opportunity to view and amend their statement prior to signing the document. If those interviewed agree, the interview should be audio recorded.

6.2.4 The Decision Making Process

The committee will assess all of the information brought forward to them surrounding the complaint and establish if the particulars of the complaint describe an incident of sexual harassment or discrimination. The committee will also conclude if, under a balance of probabilities, the circumstances have taken place. The committee will ask both the complainant and the respondent to recommend an appropriate remedy or conclusion for the complaint.

6.2.5 The Reporting Mechanism

The committee will set their reasoning and conclusion down in writing and provide it to the complainant(s) and respondent(s) and have them sign in acknowledgment of their viewing the conclusion. If the committee has concluded in favour of the complainant, the remedy(s) against the respondent shall also be contained in the report. Reports will be presented at a meeting of the Board of Directors and will be entered into the minutes of the meeting.

6.2.6 Remedies

Remedies will be introduced to the limit deemed necessary to reestablish and maintain the safety and full participatory rights of the complainant. Remedies will be introduced at the discretion of the committee and will take the wishes of the complainant into account.

Remedies shall fall within the spirit and the range of the following: having the respondent apologize in person or by letter to the complainant; removal from committees or caucuses; banning from future functions; banning from the offices of Arthur; a public apology; revocation from participant of status (paid or volunteer staff position or Board position) at Arthur; restrictions of access to Arthur organized social activities; and/or notification of the staff that the incident happened.

Remedies shall take effect as soon as the conclusion of the committee has been seen and signed by all parties concerned until an appeal is launched.

Should a respondent refuse to participate with any part of the committee's work, they shall have their status revoked and/or the right of participation in Arthur in any way revoked.

If a person has been banned from involvement with Arthur, they may appeal their ban after the end of the current publication year. The Board may uphold or revoke the ban at this time, after consulting with the complainant if possible.

The committee's findings must be approved and recorded by the Board in Board minutes. Only under extenuating circumstances will the committee's recommendations not be approved by the Board.

6.2.7 Appeals

The respondent or the complainant may initiate an appeal of the conclusion of or the remedies introduced by the committee. Appeals will be in writing and will state exactly what the appellant would like the committee to reconsider, and must be received by the committee and the Board within one month of the date that the conclusion of the committee was signed.

Appeals will only be considered if and when at least one of the following have occurred:

- Procedural errors have been made by the committee that have affected the outcome of the complaint.

- New information is introduced that would alter the conclusion of the committee.

- The remedies introduced are not consistent with the principles outlined in section 2.6 of this policy.

- The Committee's decision was not consistent with the definition of ... harassment or discrimination as defined by Arthur.

Appeals will be directed to the Board of Directors of Arthur (including all ex-officio members). The Board will review the statements and the documentation of the meetings and may request a meeting with all concerned parties.

If there is not an active Anti-Oppression committee at this time the Board will at this step make sure they seek consultation with the Centre for Human Rights, Equity & Accessibility at Trent University or another group determined by consensus of the Board to be a justifiable authority in the situation.

The Board may modify the remedy(s) introduced by the committee or the conclusion of the committee. The decision of the Board regarding an appeal will be entered into the minutes of the Board meeting.

The decision of the Board on an appeal of a decision made regarding a complaint is final.

The records of the committee will, at the conclusion of the complaint, be turned over to the Chair of the Board for secure confidential storage. If the Chair is a participant in the case the files shall go to the Secretary.

Records are kept for one month to facilitate the appeals process. After this time they are to be destroyed by the Chair. The reports and decisions that have been entered into Board minutes will, of course, not be destroyed and will be an official record of the complaint.

If breach of confidence can be shown to have occurred at the level of the committee the case will immediately be brought to the Human Rights office of Trent.

Board and paid staff members should immediately declare a conflict of interest and excuse themselves from the decision making process and discussion when appropriate.

Board or paid staff members should raise the issue of a potential conflict of interest of another Board or paid staff member whenever they feel one may exist and the person in question does not declare a conflict of interest. The Board or paid staff may then discuss the issue and ask the person with the conflict of interest to excuse themselves from the decision making process and discussion when appropriate.

If an ongoing conflict of interest situation is identified, the Board or paid staff members will be asked to remove themselves from the conflict of interest or, if not possible or desirable, resign from their position at Arthur.

There are occasions when a person is in a perpetual conflict of interest by nature of title or relationship and thus must not be allowed to sit on the Board. Some instances are:

10.1.3 Letters

Letters under 500 words must be published unless they are deemed to violate the policies of Arthur. However, letters that are deemed to be racist, homophobic and/or sexist may be published at the discretion of the editor(s).

No letters shall be considered without a proper name and telephone number. Pseudonyms may be considered for print after consultation with the editor(s).

The editor(s) shall not publish letters that are submitted before an election that promote a candidate running in the election.

The editor(s) shall not publish letters that contain libel. Unwarranted personal attacks are not to be published. Priority will be given to new voices and discussion. Endless debates may be cut short. No letters from editor(s) or section editors will be printed.

10.1.4 Opinion Pieces

Opinion pieces should be no longer than 800 words. Opinion pieces that are in response to anything published in Arthur should be printed in the form of a letter and should usually be no more than 500 words. A person may only write an opinion piece about the same issue once in a publication year. Volunteers who submit an opinion piece that would make a good news story should be encouraged to re-write it so that it can be printed in a news section of the paper.

10.1.5 Advertising

The interests of an advertiser will not affect editorial policy, even if published content results in a business boycotting Arthur's service of providing advertisements.

Local advertisers are solicited at the discretion of the editor(s), business or advertising manager, excluding businesses who have unpaid accounts older than 90 days or advertisers who have been written off for not paying for past ads.

The editor(s) may establish a boycott list of types of services or businesses they do not wish to provide ads for before the beginning of the publication year. The advertising manager will be made aware of this list before they are hired. The boycott list may be revised during the course of the year, after consultation with the advertising manager.

The editor(s) and/or the advertising manager will refuse to print offensive material in advertisements (racist, sexist, homophobic, etc. material).

10.1.6 Corrections

Arthur should rectify in print at the first available opportunity all culpable mistakes. The editor(s) should consult the writer of an article before printing a correction or apology.

The editor(s) should not feel pressured to print a correction or apology when there is nothing to correct or apologize for.
